5 Must-Know Tips to HubSpot Smarter

Familiarizing your company with HubSpot and its Hub software can elevate your business, but it's equally important to learn key tips to take your results to the next-level. Maximizing the symbiotic relationship between your company's internal ops and your external customer experience relies on knowing not only how to HubSpot but to HubSpot Smarter.

1 - Create a Goal-Oriented Game Plan

Go into the process of onboarding to HubSpot not only knowing what you want to accomplish with the platform but when it should be achieved by. Set benchmarks for the first month, three months, six months, and so on. HubSpot is great for accomplishing short and long term goals, and setting them up front will help keep you and your team on track with implementation.

2 - Make Your Tech Stack HubSpot-Centric

HubSpot is a one-stop-shop for all things sales, service, marketing, and ops, and it works best at the center of your company's ecosystem. However, if you have platforms within your tech stack that exist outside of HubSpot, such as your website or a different CRM, HubSpot makes it easy for you to integrate with the platform. Ensure that all your various platforms within your tech stack and sync data into HubSpot for the most seamless data organizing experience.

3 - Phase Out Your Approach

We have seen clients get very excited about all of HubSpot's capabilities and decide to start utilizing everything at once without a proper game plan. This can lead to not using any of the tools, especially the most important ones for their organization, to their full capacity. Avoid overwhelming your team with too many tools and tactics by first focusing on what you want to set up in the short term for your day to day operations. Then, make a plan for the 'nice to have' tools you would like to start utilizing in the near future.

4 - Don't Skip Out On Training

HubSpot is a big platform with lots of tools, and going into it without much knowledge of how things work can be intimidating. Onboarding your team altogether with training and resources can lessen platform anxiety and ensure they're familiar with the ins and outs of HubSpot's unique features. HubSpot's own training platform, HubSpot Academy, offers a wealth of training and tools to get your team up to speed in no time.

5 - Make Sure You Have A Guide | Don't Go Through The Process Alone!

Moving your business onto a large platform can be intimidating, especially if you are doing it without a guide. This is where TribalVision can come in.
